"It would be the first step in the wrong direction," said Mrs. Talbert Josselyn, Carmel planning commission member, at the meeting of the group Wednesday afternoon. Under discussion was a sample of metal, enamelled lettering, very neat, efficient, standardized, exactly what one would expect of an article that is turned out, mass production, by a large firm for little towns and small cities all over the country. Pacific Grove has just bought a lot in two-tone green.

The city council, with an idea of installing the signs in Carmel, had referred the sample to the planning commission for consideration, "because it costs too much for the street department to be stencilling telephone posts with street names; there aren't posts at every corner and whenever we have attractive signs (remember the Phil Nesbitt signs) college kids pack them off for souvenirs."

The strength of the last argument was obvious. Nobody would want to carry off the specimen lying on the table in front of the planning board members.

"It doesn't seem to fit in with the atmosphere of Carmel," commented Bert Heron, who added that it was likely that a good many Carmel residents would just as soon remain a little hard to find, the way out of town visitors have of turning up for the weekend. Donald Craig (former seaman that he is), pointed out that nothing can beat a map and good compass; and Mrs. Gladys Keplinger added that there are free maps of Carmel to be had at every real estate office, several drug stores and any number of business houses.

"All right," said Chairman P. A. McCreery. "What do we tell the city council?"

"Tell 'em 'no'."

The members had something else to tell the city council. They want the ordinance amended so that there will be more control over signs lighted by floodlights. Neon signs are prohibited, but there is little the city can do at the present moment to prevent brilliant lighting of signs by electric lights, when the signs are on private property.

The guest house and apartment house proprietors appear to be the worst offenders, said Hurd Comstock, pointing out that in the res-

ATTEND FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

Carmel was represented at the Tri-County Firemen's meeting at Aptos Wednesday evening by Fire Chief Vincent Torres, Paul Mercurio, Fred Warren, Frank Hefling, Stanley Hilbert, and Fire Marshall Robert Leidig.

Deputy State Fire Marshal was the speaker. On the program also were two Navy films, Chemistry of Fire, and Battle of Okinawa. The latter is not shown to the general public.

We all know that, with every privilege we must have a responsibility, but we don't always accept these responsibilities and many times it is because we don't realize them.

To get the best from our privileges, which too many of us take for granted, we must all co-operate in having present in our minds three things in particular: appreciation for these privileges, education for our culture, and a desire to crusade for democracy.

In order to appreciate the many advantages people in the United States have, we should have knowledge of U. S. History, a knowledge of our geography and economics, and the knowledge of our contributions to culture in music, literature, sports, and the various arts that make these states the important nation the United States is today.

Education also plays an important part in our duties as citizens and individuals. Our knowledge of political science, voting, and jury trial should not only contribute to our welfare as American citizens, but also to our realization of our obligations as a whole. Education should make us capable and productive citizens.

But we can't just think of our-

Carmel Gets A "Standard School"

BY CAROL CARD

Carmel-by-the-Sea is acutely conscious of the standards of its schools. At times it almost seems to have a complex on the subject. During the recent proposed school redistricting voices were strident, faces grew purple, and resolutions were passed. The word "standards" was flying like shrapnel. It was then we recalled the good old days when Sunset School could first boast that it was, finally, a "standard school." That was in 1915. As tangible evidence of the fact, the County Board of Education sent a bronze tablet bearing the inscription "A Standard School," and this was duly installed over the front door of the school house for all the world to see. That was a great day for the community.

Sunset had been rather slow in coming up to standard. It had its humble beginning in the autumn of 1903, in an old shed near the southeast corner of Ocean and San Carlos, which had been built by Delos Goldsmith and used as a carpenter shop. An enrollment of seven students was needed before a school district could be organized. Meanwhile, it seems, the salary of the teacher, Miss Mary Westfall, was paid partly by the Carmel Development Co. and partly with funds subscribed by the residents of the community.

Early in 1904 the school was transferred to a cottage on Dolores street near the present telephone building. As the required seven pupils were now enrolled, Sunset School District was created by the County Supervisors on April 4. The location of the school was changed in 1905, when the cottage which housed it was moved to the northeast corner of Devendorf Plaza. The enrollment jumped to 18, and the newly elected board of trustees hired a new teacher, a Miss Roehling.

Sunset School moved for a third time in 1906, when the first school building was erected at the corner of San Carlos and Ninth. This edifice contained two classrooms and a library. Architecturally, it might be described as a sort of modified California Mission style. An old picture of it shows a somewhat rococo roof line, and a formidable tower and dome over the main en-

Dr. Wm. Coughlin Candidate For School Board

Dr. William F. Coughlin yesterday announced his candidacy for election to the school board of the Carmel Unified School District. He filed his petition on Tuesday, with Wednesday being the last day for such action. The other candidate for the one open position on the board is J. O. Handley, incumbent.

Dr. Coughlin first came to Carmel in 1938 and practised medicine here until the war years, when he served as a colonel with the Medical Corps at Fort Ord and other camps in this country and later in the European theater for over two years. At the end of the war he returned to Carmel and resumed his practice here. Both before the war and after he has been the doctor for high school athletics.

Although he has never before run for public office here, he told the Pine Cone that a group of local citizens had prevailed upon him to seek election to the school board. He is a member of the Carmel Lions Club and the Monterey County Medical Association. The election will be held on May 20, jointly with the election for

When a bird is caged he will probably break his wings on the bars trying to get away.

People don't like to be bossed any more than fish taken out of water or birds caged. People have minds of their own.

Most people have certain things that they are cut out to be. One may be an engineer, another a lawyer, still another may be cut out to be a doctor.

For years people have been fighting for freedom — freedom from tyrants. Tyrants of all kinds who made men spend their lives fighting for them to win land or riches. There were tyrants who forced men to build great palaces or monuments, other tyrants made men pay high taxes or accept low wages.

Democracy means freedom. It means that people are free to make full use of their minds and to develop without interference all of their interests and abilities. This is democracy, our American Way of Life.

the bond issue which, if passed, will provide for a new wing on the public library. This plan was approved at a meeting of the school board held on Tuesday evening.

The school board also adopted a calendar for next year and decided that the fall term will open on Sept. 12 and that school will close on June 16, 1950.

Officer W. W. Dufur of the Carmel police department made a report showing a marked decrease in delinquency here and said that a large part of it was due to recreational activities of the Carmel Boys' Club.

A meeting will be held early in May to sign teachers' contracts for next year, and a report on the budget will probably be heard at the same time.

Public School Week Program Is Announced

Public School Week, April 25 to 29, will be observed in Carmel with special programs arranged at both Carmel High School and Sunset School for parents and friends of the students.

An invitation has been extended by Arthur Hull, principal of Sunset School, to visit any or all rooms at any time during the week. Normal activities will be going on so that outsiders may have an idea of typical classroom procedure.

Special programs will be: an orchestra program on Tuesday in the auditorium from 1:20 to 1:40 under Arthur Holman; a pottery demonstration on Tuesday in the auditorium from 1:40 to 2:20; a folk dance festival on Thursday at 2:15 on the south field, with youngsters from the kindergarten through the fourth grade; a student body meeting on Friday at 2:30 with a program presented by Miss Neill Rush's class and a father-son-daughter baseball game on Friday at 3:30.

PADRES HOST TO GONZALES NINE TODAY

Here, one of the best baseball teams in Northern California high school circles, the feared Gonzales Spartans invade the Carmel bailiwick this afternoon to do battle with the local prepsters. The valley boys present a well-balanced aggregation which knows how to hit, field, throw, and hustle. This, coupled with the confidence which follows a championship club makes Gonzales an overwhelming favorite to pummel our Padres. In Wes Breschini, a sturdy 185 pounder, the Spartans boast the top prep pitcher in the CCAL. This lad has a nifty collection of tricky pitches which have handcuffed opposing batters so far this season. 'Tis rumored that several professional teams are angling for the services of this left-handed flinger. Receiving the slants is the top catcher in the league, Hal Yates. Yates already handles himself like a professional ball player and has shown plenty of power with the willow. Backing up this potent battery, will be an experienced infield and outfield capable of handling the tough chances.

Carmel will rely on the pitching arm of Gene Vandervort to counter the hurling of the classy Breschini. Gene has turned in some fine performances this year, and, off his best effort, could give the Spartans an anxious afternoon. In their first meeting earlier in the year, Vandervort held Gonzales to one hit and outpitched the great Breschini. Art "Bobo" Harber will be behind the plate for the Padres, with Stewart Emery, Bob Updike, Walt Frey, and Henry Overin completing the infield. Lee Laugenour, Bill Daniels, and Neils Reimers will patrol the outer gardens.

CARMEL-SANTA CRUZ CLASH HERE SATURDAY MORNING

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the varsity baseball teams of the Santa Cruz and Carmel High Schools will square off in a non-league clash at Bardarson Field. The Santa Cruz radio station is putting on a broadcast direct from Bardarson Field. Santa Cruz always fields a strong entry in the A Division of the CCAL and they are in third place in this year's standing. They outplayed the favored Watsonville Wildcats only to drop a 1-0 decision. The Cardinals are coached by Chuck Smith, a former Carmel resident and local baseball arbiter.

Henry Overin will toe the slab for Carmel with Art Harber doing the catching.

GIANTS NUDGE PILOTS, AND SHAMROCKS BOW TO TIGERS IN ABALONE PLAY

Even Allen Knight's mighty home run clout in the last inning wasn't enough to put the damper on Nicholson's rampaging Giants, and the Pilots bowed to the superior strategy of the alert Giants in last Sunday's Abalone League play. Nicholson hurled a steady thirteen-hit game for the Giants and he was aided by some terrific slugging on the part of John Ogletree and Cliff Cook. Ogletree hit a steady three for three, while Cook connected for three blows in four chances. With this coveted victory, the Giants moved into an undisputed lead in the standings.

Short score: R H E
Pilots 8 13 0
Giants 17 17 0
Batteries: Pilots, Allen Knight and Palmer; Giants, Nicholson and Prior.

Playing without the services of their fiery manager, Mike Balazs, the Tigers surprised the Gif-led Shamrocks and took a well-earned 10-9 decision. Jay Huffman pitched and batted the roaring Tigers to victory. Not only did he hold the Shamrocks to a paltry 15 hits but he picked up a perfect 4 for 4 in his turns at the plate. By Prior wielded the big stick for the Shamrocks, rapping a double, triple, and home run in three chances. Manager Giles was pitching a steady game until the seventh inning, when he served Louie Saunders a home run pitch with the bases bulging. Word is out that Jack is working feverishly to strengthen the Shamrocks and pull them out of that damp cellar.

Short score: R H E
Shamrocks 9 15 0
Tigers 10 18 0
Batteries: Shamrocks, Giles and Prior; Tigers, Huffman and Saunders.

Next Sunday, the Giants and Tigers square off in the 1:30 game, while the Shamrocks and Pilots have at it in the 2:30 fracas.

BELVAIL'S SPROUTS HALT ALISAL WIN STREAK

The Alisal Juniors, a classy little softball team, were riding a five game winning streak until they ran into the local CYO midgets last Saturday night and reaped for a 5-2 rubbing. The excellent one-hit pitching of Johnny DeAmaral and the solid hitting of Tom Brosnan proved to be the undoing of the Alisal boys. DeAmaral struck out thirteen Alisal hitters and was very effective in the pinches. Bob Streissguth exhibited a sharp eye on pitched balls to draw four walks in four times at bat. Bob developed quite a reputation as a slugger last year and opposing pitchers are using caution in giving him good ones to swing on.

RESERVES TURN TABLES ON SALINAS JUNIOR-VARSITY

A few weeks ago the Carmel High School reserve baseball team journeyed to Salinas and took a 16-1 thumping from the good Salinas JV team. Refusing to believe they were that bad, the local horsehiders put in some good practice licks and resolved to narrow the gap in their next encounter with the Cowboys. Last Tuesday the Salinas boys invaded the local diamond loaded with confidence that they could repeat the previous slaughter. However, two big innings by the Padre reserves wiped out a nine run deficit and brought a highly desired victory for the Red and Gray. Salinas threatened to run away with the game in the first frame when they denoted the platter for nine markers. In Carmel's half of the first, Art Harber boomed a home run with the bags loaded to put the locals within hailing distance. In the fifth inning, the locals scored eight markers when the Salinas pitcher developed a wild streak and walked seven batters. Besides connecting for a home run, Harber pitched steady ball after relieving Overin in the wild first inning. Playing for the Carmel reserves were Walt Shaw, Brent Millen, Don Canham, Art Harber, Dick Weer, Bill Daniels, Bob Updike, Ted Nash, Paul Artellan, Henry Overin, and Walt Frey.

Carmel Uninc. To Study Matter Of Annexation

Whether annexation to the City of Carmel by Carmel Unincorporated would be desirable will be the subject of a survey to be conducted by a committee appointed at the meeting of the organization held Monday night at the Carmel Woman's Club.

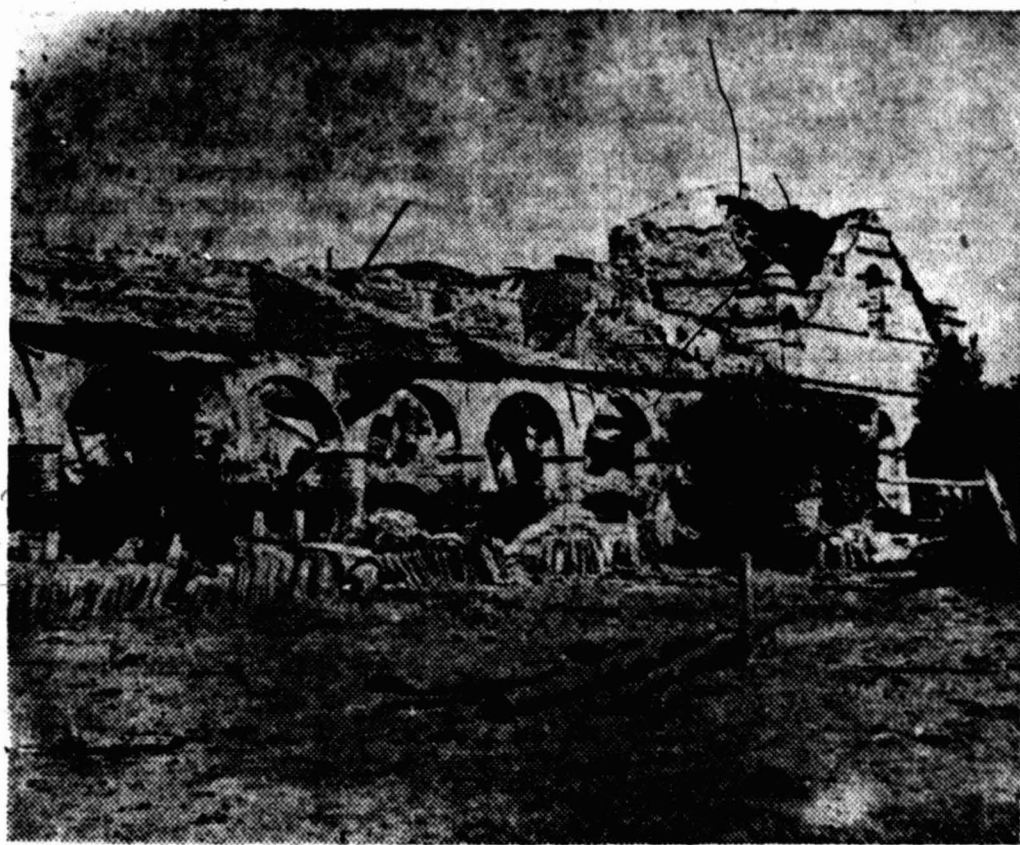

The committee consists of Edward W. Cochrane, chairman, Adm. C. D. Edgar, Mrs. Hubert Jenkinson, Dr. Blanchard Steeves, and L. R. McCollum. No stand is being taken in the matter at present, and the committee was instructed to determine the many problems which would be concerned with such a move.

A motion was made to accept a compromise on the matter of rezoning for commercial use at the intersection of Highway 1 and the Carmel Valley Road, but this was unanimously voted down.

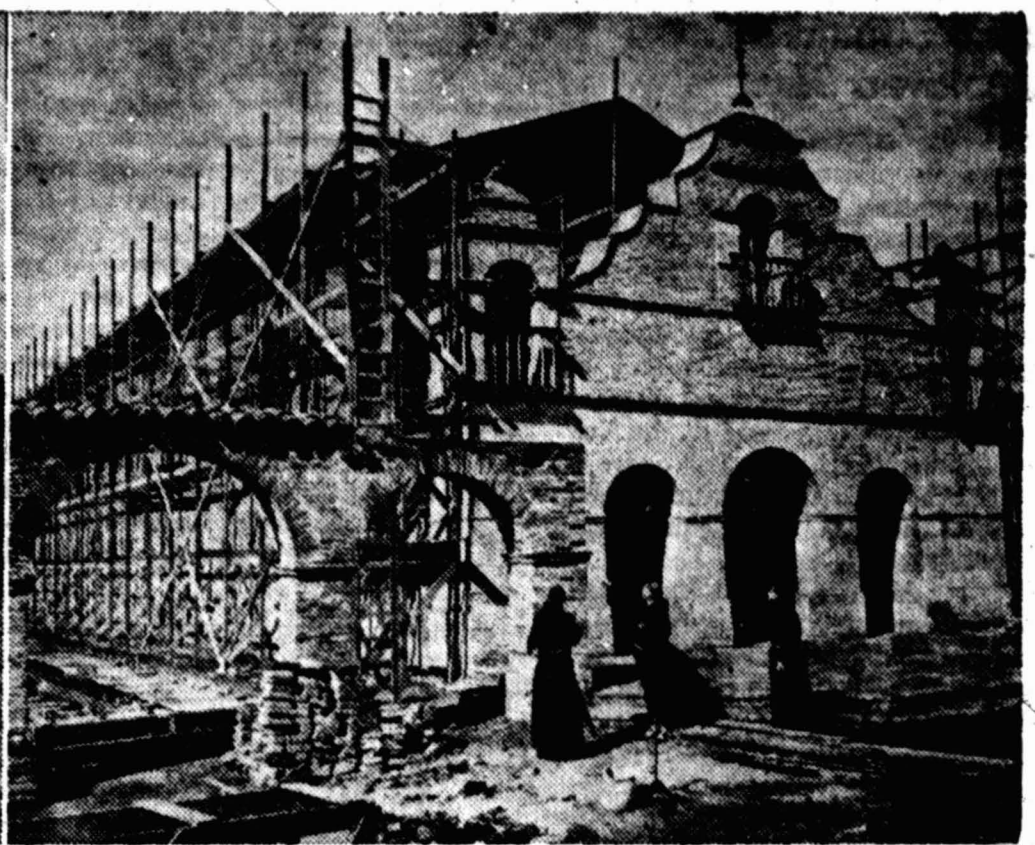

Another motion was made and carried unanimously that citizens go en masse to the meeting of the Monterey County Planning Commission next Monday at the courthouse in Salinas. It was urged that members of Carmel Unincorporated get in touch with as many local residents as possible to protest such a rezoning, whether they are members of the organization or not.

LADIES NIGHT FOR LIONS

At the regular Tuesday dinner meeting of the Carmel Lions Club it was announced that the next meeting on Tuesday, April 26, will be Ladies' Night and will be held at the high school cafeteria at trance. This building was in use until 1926, when the present Sunset School (exclusive of the newer auditorium extension) was constructed.

The first pedagogue to hold forth in the new school was Mr. Sax, and he had some 30 pupils at the beginning of the first term. The number increased to 48 in the second term, with all eight grades represented. The situation apparently was more than poor Mr. Sax could cope with; the board decided that the school needed stronger discipline and appointed Mrs. Willis G. White to replace Mr. Sax in the second term. The enrollment by this time was increasing so rapidly that two teachers were needed in 1907. Mrs. White became principal and teacher of the four upper grades, with Miss Genevieve Pratt as primary teacher. Mrs. White resigned at the end of the term, but resumed her position as principal a few years later, in 1913. In the interim there was a considerable turnover of personnel.

It was under the administration of Mrs. White that Sunset finally fulfilled the requirements necessary to qualify as a "standard" school. The curriculum consisted of arithmetic, grammar, spelling, history, geography, literature, music, drawing, physiology, and hygiene, with civil government and bookkeeping in addition for the eighth graders. In those remote times, students who misspelled words were kept after school until they learned to spell them—and they really learned to spell. Nowadays, nobody can spell correctly, as any high school teacher or college professor will tell you bitterly. The County Board of Education prepared examinations twice a year for the students, and they had to pass with at least a 75 per cent average in order to be promoted. All of this was highly beneficial to the students but hard on the teachers, who frequently had to go to school at 7 o'clock in the morning to tutor the dunces, and were often unable to get away until 5:30 or 6 o'clock in the evening, after the last spelling bout. Of course, great emphasis was laid on the building of good character, as well.

And salaries? The magnificent compensation for all this labor was $80 per month for the principal and upper grade teacher. One of the early primary teachers had a nervous breakdown and committed suicide by drowning in the bay.

The trustees did not waste any money on "frills" in those days, either, according to an article in The Pine Cone, April 19, 1940, by Mrs. Willis G. White. If a teacher wanted good quality drawing paper for class work, she jolly well paid for it herself. There was no athletic equipment. The boys, however, contributed money from their own earnings and, with additional financial assistance from the teachers, raised a sum to purchase bats and balls. The school's entire equipment for music education consisted of an old parlor organ, but in 1915, with $10 from the teachers as a starter, the community as a whole took up a collection to buy a phonograph.

Carmel today is more generous with its schools. In public estimation, the best is scarcely good enough for them. Experts in education will no doubt say that the present system is far superior to the old two-room school. Nevertheless, we challenge anyone to prove that it turns out citizens of any finer calibre than those who emerged from the devoted guidance and instruction of Mrs. White and her fellow teachers in the old "standard school" of yesteryear.

May 24 Set For Election On Sanitary District

The question as to whether Hatton Fields and Walker Tract residents wish the territory to be annexed to the Carmel Sanitary District will be decided at the election to be held on May 24. The election date was set officially at an adjourned meeting held Monday night.

Those living in the two districts will also vote on whether they wish the tracts to become incorporated.

There will be two polling places—the Carmel fire house and the W. B. Sturgis garage at the corner of Atherton Drive and Rio Road. The polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. At the fire house, the inspector will be Mrs. Alice W. Askew, while the judges will be Mrs. Eula Douglas and Mrs. Bernice Wermuth. Inspector at the second place will be Capt. H. S. "Dear Mr. Richards:

Now that we have moved into our new house at Monterey, I want to take this opportunity to express to you our thanks for the very fine job you did in its construction.

The fact that you completed the house two weeks in advance of date called for under the contract indicated very careful planning, especially in face of the unexpected difficulties you encountered in the foundation, due to soil conditions.

Another factor—deserving of mention is that the job was completed with practically no extras.

Radio Should Be Regulated Says AAUW Speaker

More radios than bathtubs have a place in American homes, Mrs. Ken Browning of San Francisco, told the American Association of University Women Wednesday evening at the public panel on Children's Radio—Today, Tomorrow. The meeting, held at the Carmel Woman's Club, was open to the public but the audience was small. Whether radio programs and bathtub cleanliness have anything in common or are incompatible, the speaker left to her audience to decide, but she did emphatically point out that cleanliness and wholesomeness of programs for children rests within the power of the public.

Mrs. Browning outlined the growth of the broadcasting business in the U.S. from small beginnings with little profit and no regulation to big business of almost 1000 stations, 600 of which belong to four chains, chief regulation being assignment of wavelengths by the Federal Communications Commission. The F.C.C. said recently that only one person, the representative of A.A.U.W., had visited the office in Washington to speak on behalf of the public.

Mrs. V. L. Sessions and Mrs. Walter Fell, the other members of the A.A.U.W. radio panel, followed with further points justifying regulation. Only three percent of programs are for children, and the hours from five to eight in the evening are blank so far as child interest is concerned. Programs usually regarded as suitable for children are really of low-adult appeal, and, as in the cowboy adventures, hold to the same ideas and actions as they've used for the last five years. The radio has a strong potentiality for developing the child mind and character and should be used for that purpose. Suggestions were made to this end, and considerable audience discussion followed.

At the short business meeting preceding the program election of officers for two-year terms made Mrs. H. Douglas Martz the new vice-president and Mrs. Judson Stull, treasurer. They were also elected as delegates to the state convention next month at Pasadena. Mrs. Norman Nass, president, conducted the meeting, and Miss Eleanor Henry, chairman of the local radio listening section, introduced the speakers. A no-host dinner for the visitors was held at 6:15 in a downtown hotel by association officers and members of Miss Henry's group.

selves in the present; we must look ahead for the future generations and see that they, too, enjoy the privileges and accept the responsibilities attached to them. In order to accomplish this, we must crusade for democracy in the same way communists and fascists crusade to spread their beliefs. They are ready and willing to die in order to advance their political views; we, as good American citizens, should be just as fanatical about democracy.

Rather than condemn communism, which now is one of the biggest threats in our country, we should promote democracy through writing and conversations with all our neighbors. We should praise this democracy and make it successful; and thus help to make the United States the greatest and most advanced nation, not only because of its large industries and vast culture, but because of its democratic and united way of living.

Public School Week Program Is Announced

Carmel Parent-Teachers Association will welcome parents and friends at the special program on Thursday at 8 o'clock in the high school cafeteria. The program will feature a showing of the special hour-long film on high school activities, taken throughout the school year by Superintendent Stuart Mitchell. Virtually every student appears in some scene during the movie, which covers daily school life, sports events, ski trips and other special activities. The high school orchestra and band will provide musical accompaniment for the movie, and several members will appear as solo performers. The musical program will be under the direction of Mr. John Farr.

Following the program, refreshments, prepared by Mrs. Louise Bourne's homemaking classes, will be served in the newly decorated home economics rooms and the entire faculty will be on hand to visit with the parents. Other classrooms will feature displays of student work and special projects. Parents are invited to visit the high school, not only for this special program, but at any time during the week.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Julian von Meier, Carmel P-TA vice president, and hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Mrs. Howard Clark, Mrs. George Fortier, Mrs. Carol McKenney, Mrs. Howard Timbers, Mrs. Gerald Page and Mrs. Ben Updike.

On Tuesday night, the Lions Club members and their wives will hold the regular dinner meeting in the cafeteria and the same movie will be shown.

Arts And The Artists

By Mary Caluori

Four portrait commissions in one day! Mrs. Montague announced this with proper pride. In the spring the fancy of the young in Carmel runs to portraits, it seems, but love is probably at the bottom of it anyway.

One of the nicest things about possessing antennae is that one acquires knowledge so painlessly; it comes in over the wires all the time. One has only to keep tuned, and that usually means keep quiet. This week heard how the old masters, Rubens, Velasquez, and Titian achieved the color effects that distinguish their used light: monochrome very solidly until the delineation, volume, and all is finished. They wash it then, and having finished completely with form, they now can really paint, and the result is an incomparable luminosity. Warshawsky uses this technique.

Florence Lockwood, pastel portrait painter, who has been here for years, much beloved by her many friends, has taken a group of representative paintings to the Monterey booth in the King City Fair, which opens Thursday morning and runs through Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Her own very well known portraits will be on display, with the Marine by Frank Myers, and San Dunes by Arthur Gilbert.

Louisa Jenkins, who is Mrs. Mathew Jenkins of Pebble Beach, has gone to Jamaica for six months with Mr. Jenkins and their son, Peter. Everyone hopes the relaxation will be most beneficial. Louisa Jenkins is remembered for her mosaics in glass, and for her devotion to the Theme of the Cross show assembly. Her friend, Maud Oaks, gave a lecture on the show the first of the month, which was most enjoyable.

Donald Teague, water colorist, National Academy member, visited his old friends at the Gallery. They noticed that he looks wishfully at studio sites in town. What a delightful addition to the art group he would make.

More keyhole talk: Now the "moderns," or, as Mrs. Montague refers to them, the semi-abstract painters, will feel more cared for, for they have an ell to themselves at the Full Membership Show.

Under a traveling policy, the California State Fairs of 1856, 1857 and 1858 were held, respectively, in San Jose, Stockton and Marysville.

Dance Recital Of Doris Niles

BY COL. P. SCHNEEBERGER

Last week members of the Musical Art Club attended a dance recital that will long remain in their memory. It was the performance at the Woman's Club by Doris Niles who came from Los Angeles to present character dances mainly of Oriental, Brazilian and Spanish origin. Her program of surprisingly wide range was given with perfection of technique and charming simplicity. There was an obvious understanding of the emotional values of her varied subjects that deeply moved an enthusiastic audience that stood in the aisles for better view.

By far the most effective of her offerings was the series of dances that have won her fame at home as well as in the capitals of Europe, the classic and flamenco Spanish dances. With a true sense of authority she brought out all the nuances written into the colorful music and demanded by the vivid subjects. Whether it was the quietness of a Granada night or stirring religious fervor, whether the allurements of breezes aromatic with jasmine or the intensity of a dancing gypsy, all her movements, her hands, her face, her castanets portrayed these with convincing beauty. Small wonder that this American girl was to bring the Spanish dance to Spain itself with such ability that it led to command performances at the court of Alphonso XIII.

In the Spanish group there were both classic and flamenco or gypsy numbers. Our choice was her incomparable Cordoba with the music of Albeniz, which seemed to give best play for her extensive vocabulary. But there were other stops she pulled out for the fiery gypsy dances she next wove for pieces by de Falla and Lecuona.

Miss Niles' program included other dances that brought warmest response even though they did not possess the dynamic vitality of the Spanish. Foremost of these were the French creations given to the music of Debussy. Her Clair de Lune was an exquisite interpretive piece in which she depicted the emotion aroused by the sheer beauty of the moonlight. Her Danse Profane by contrast expressed an intense reaction to the world around her by complete abandonment to the rhythm of the music. There was a pair of exotic Hindu dances, their rhythm emphasized by bells on her ankles, and Chinese numbers presented poetically and with great restraint. And greatly enjoyed was a trio of Brazilian dances of a popular type. Their gay coquettish whimsy caught the fancy of the audience, for these were accents that were easily appreciated.

Much credit for the danseuse's success is due to Galen Lurwick who accompanied Miss Niles and assisted with piano solos that were almost a recital in themselves. But most impressive was his following of her intricate steps with perfect timing, and the unerring capability of sensing her moods that marked him as a most sympathetic accompanist.

Doris Niles' choreographic attainments are of a high order, the result of years of preparation in New York and a full decade in Paris under the greatest teachers of her art. But all this training would not have made her the finished artist that she is if she did not possess unusual gifts. She has a superb appreciation of all things esthetic, an innate vitality as well as fine sensitiveness, and a sympathetic warmth of character that marks her as a rare soul. Capabilities like hers and expression of the exotic loveliness she portrays seldom comes to our notice.

Salinas Valley Club Plans Dog Show

This match will fill the requirements of the American Kennel Club and will enable the Salinas organization to present licensed shows for points following the May meeting.

Among the judges will be Ralph W. Brown of Eureka; James McManus of San Carlos; William D. Ross of San Francisco; Mrs. Arthur Schwind of San Rafael and Joe Simpson of Richmond.

Wessel And Storr Composers As Well As Duo Pianists

One of the musical highlights of the 1949 season will take place next Tuesday evening at 8:30 at Sunset School auditorium when Mark Wessel and Sherman Storr are presented in their first local appearance as a duo-piano team.

It has been almost a dozen years since an ensemble of this kind appeared before a Carmel audience and the advance sale of tickets has shown that a two-piano team holds a great lure for many musical enthusiasts, according to Evans and Burr, who are handling the local management of this talented duo.

Both Wessel and Storr are excellent pianists as well as gifted composers. Among Wessel's published works are a set of pieces for horn and piano as well as his Symphony Concertante for Solo Horn, Solo Piano and Orchestra, played by the Vienna Philharmonic with the composer at the piano. Wessel has also appeared as soloist with the Budapest Philharmonic as well as the NBC, Chicago and Rochester symphonies.

Storr studied at Syracuse University and later attended the Juilliard School of Music in New York. After his army service as an enlisted man he attended USC where he continued his studies in composition and piano with Ernst Toch, Hans Eisler and John Crown.

Two-piano repertoire being comparatively limited the gifted composers have arranged many works to suit their medium while original compositions accent programs interested in contrast and scope of material.

Included will be the works of Bach, Brahms, Debussy and Tchaikowsky as well as their own compositions.

Father Serra To Be Honored Sunday

International Father Serra Day will be celebrated next Sunday in many parts of the world. A special sermon will be preached by the Rev. Eric O'Brien, O. F. M., vice-postulator of his Cause at the Carmel Mission.

In every Franciscan church in the United States and Canada, the friars will preach on Padre Serra's temporal and spiritual achievements and in Mexico similar observances will be held.

Solemn High Mass will be celebrated here at 11 o'clock, and there will be a pilgrimage to the grave of Father Serra by the Catholic Daughters of America from Watsonville, Salinas, Monterey and Hollister.

P. G. and E.'s new power lines would reach half-way' round the world

Swinging between towers and poles in Northern and Central California today are some 12,000 miles of new power lines... added since war-time building restrictions were lifted. And even more new lines are going up at the rate of 3,000 miles a year. That's three times as fast as prewar construction. All told, more than 50,000 miles of transmission and distribution lines are already on the job in the area we serve—America's largest inter-connected power network.

Helping speed the job are new methods and equipment like this radio telephone. With it an engineer can tell a distant winch operator just how much tension to put on the line as it is hoisted up and strung between towers.

These new lines and half a million new horsepower are serving California's expanding industrial and agricultural activities. Last year alone, more than 71,000 new electric customers were connected to P. G. and E.'s system.

For the record

P. G. and E. is investing millions in new power-producing facilities.

This post-war expansion program—America's greatest—is about at the half-way mark...

...and is keeping ahead of Northern California's growing power needs.

Mrs. Beyea Draws From Experiences For Auxiliary Talk

"To be interested in everything there is to hear, to see, to do," is a good guide for living, according to Mrs. Pirie Beyea, lecturer, radio commentator, and world traveler who has come to live on the Monterey Peninsula. Mrs. Beyea gave a lively account of some of her hearing, seeing, and doing, at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Hay-farer on Tuesday afternoon, keeping her listeners deeply interested in her account of situations in two World Wars, and in personalities who have influenced the course of nations during half a century.

Born of Scottish and English parents in Jamaica and having her birth registered almost immediately in Edinburgh, coming to America in early womanhood to make her own way, serving as a nurse in the first World War in the same company as Carmel's Miss Etta Paul, "sentenced to 24 hours in the brig for taking an enlisted man to lunch in the officers' club (he was a Harvard graduate)"—it would be difficult to find a person of more varied preparation or more penetrating judgment of personalities, as a lecturer or radio commentator. Many of the world's great names in the period mean to her persons whom she has met and from whom she has messages of appreciation.

Among those on her life's roster of memories, beginning with childhood: Queen Victoria, the prince who later became George V, Queen Mary, Lloyd George, Queen Wilhelmina, Edith Cavell, America's Brand Whitlock, Theodore Roosevelt, with many others. Her first occupation in this country was in a New York sweat shop. "Emma Goldman tried to make an anarchist of me, but I couldn't tear down when I was being lifted up." Samuel Gompers gave her the basic ideals of Americanism. What would America be today, she asked, without the many nationalities that make her, all those people who came to make her what she has become? She emphasized the importance of the true culture of courtesy and kindness.

Among the treasures which she displayed, the most striking was the Lady made out of Uranium, a beautiful statuette of green satin glass from the Sudetenland material from that country's uranium mines. From her knowledge of English history and customs she said she believed that the real reason for the abdication of Edward VIII was not because of desired marriage to a commoner, but was a flouting of the fundamental conditions of English life and government, a real betrayal that could not be made public at the time.

Before the guest gave her interesting talk, Mrs. J. M. Southwell led in devotions, reading from Proverbs: "A soft answer turneth away wrath"—following with a brief sketch of the work of the blind Scottish minister, Reverend George Matteson, who greatly influenced his generation.

The meeting began with a salad luncheon which the Auxiliary members enjoyed at noon. At the business meeting after the talk, reports were given by Mrs. D. E. Nixon on the assistance for the Navajos, by Miss Agnes L. Willis-

COUNTRY CLUB IN VALLEY

A new country club for Carmel Valley is under construction, according to owners of the project, Paul F. Porter and Peggy Porter Marquard, developers of Rancho Del Monte Subdivisions.

The site for the new club is located 13 miles up Carmel Valley in Rancho Del Monte Subdivisions, and will be called Rancho Del Monte Country Club. The club will be in operation in July.

The swimming pool will be 30x75 feet. Dressing rooms will be adjacent to the pool, also a lanai where food and drinks may be served. A kitchen and bar are to be constructed, also a large club room. The club will be operated on a membership basis. The buildings are of modern design. Thomas Elston of Carmel is the architect.

HI CHATTER

By Nancy Page

After a whole glorious week of vacation, it's been hard to get back into the routine of things again, but peeling noses and memories of the beach aren't supposed to have any effect on our powers of concentration. At least that's what we've heard!

A sneak preview of CHS in Revue, Mr. Mitchell's color film on campus activities was given Tuesday afternoon at a student assembly. This first showing, without sound, gave an interesting picture of school progress during the last two years, from classroom construction to the recent ski trip. Many unknown comedians were also discovered in the parade of scenes. Proceeds from this showing went to the Rally Club, sponsoring organization. Next week CHS in Revue will be presented for Public Schools week programs, with student orchestral accompaniment to the film.

More assembly activity this week included the Pacific Grove High School traveling show which was presented here on Wednesday afternoon. The Breaker troupe brought a variety show with all sorts of numbers for the entertainment of the Carmel student body.

Leaders' Club girls this week enjoyed another progressive dinner, the second this year. Several switches were made in plans for the various courses, and the final route began at Jennifer Lloyd's with appetizers, then went on to Laurel Hildebrand's for soup and salad, Nancy Page's for the main course, and ended at Joan Daniels' with dessert. Following the dinner, planning for which was directed by Janice Hatton, chairman, a short business meeting was held to discuss the coming May Day dance to be sponsored by the club on April 29. Connie Melchior and Eleanor Taggart are in charge of the affair. Miss Dorothy Wright is Leaders' Club sponsor.

A follow-up of the recent tuberculosis skin test program came yesterday when the mobile X-ray unit was in Carmel to X-ray all persons over 12 years of age desiring the service. However, the project was concentrated upon those students who had positive reactions in the skin test, and all of these people were transported to Sunset School for the free X-rays.

The newly organized Music Club met again last night for another of its regular sessions with the great musical compositions. Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony was the topic of discussion, as the group carefully went into this work. Light refreshments were served following the meeting. The Music Club meets every second Thursday night, each time at the home of a different member. Sponsor is John Farr, music department head.

Big musical activity this week is the Central Coast Counties Music Festival, scheduled for Hollister all day tomorrow. Program performance will include both elementary and high school vocal and instrumental groups, with Carmel being represented by the mixed chorus, the orchestra, and the band. Open to the public, the festival is the same affair as that held a year ago in Carmel's Sunset Auditorium, with ten schools from three counties in attendance. The 75 CHS students participating will leave for Hollister tomorrow morning by Greyhound bus.

Girls' athletics are in the spotlight this week, for 70 Carmel girls will represent CHS at a tri-school playday to be held in Watsonville this afternoon. Watsonville, Hollister, and Carmel groups will participate in basketball, softball, and volleyball on a rotating basis, with every person playing every sport. This is the only playday of this kind which Carmel has taken part in this year, but the large number of girls scheduled to attend promises to make it a success.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

It was a good thing that, three years ago, Bess talked me into setting up a greenhouse. It is only 7x12 but it holds all the garden tools, sprays, dusts, etc., and makes a place where I can raise all my young plants, cabbages, a limited number of bedding plants, tomatoes and anything else I decide to try.

That means I can fiddle around with different varieties and decide which ones do best in my plot of mother earth. The nursery men cannot, of course, keep on hand all or even many varieties of cabbage, cauliflower or tomato plants. So they raise only the good old standbys and the ones most folks use. Purple cauliflower was a novelty to me but I could try it out and now it is a regular.

For three years I have been sampling tomato varieties to see which ones will best produce and ripen out here where they get blasts of wind and fog. Earliana produces fairly well but the fruits are poorly shaped. Marglobe simply refuses to produce for me. Stone does a good job; the dwarf Stone did nothing. Pearson Improved gave us a few well-shaped and nicely colored fruits. Beefsteak (Ponderosa, not the pink) simply sat and sulked all summer. Fordhook hybrid did better than average.

The new No. 52 that I tried last year bore great bunches of as many as sixteen to twenty on a branch. But not one tomato was as thick through as the diameter of a half-dollar. Many of them were the size of Bing cherries. Bess votes no on this variety. She doesn't like to peel so many for so little. The flavor is excellent — they really are sub-acid. As is also, I might add, the wifely comment when a basket of them comes to the kitchen—"May I peel you a grape?"

Every year Bounty has done well. The fruits are abundant, plump and well-shaped, a bit light in color, and solid meated. The vines are compact and do not run to suckers. Then, too, they are rust and wilt resistant. So Bounty seems to be my old reliable.

This year I am trying Big Boy and Pritchard. The first is described as producing immense and delicious, dark-red fruits. The latter is described as a "self-topper," highly prolific, fruits sub-acid, juicy and meaty. We'll see about that.

A neighbor has also given me seeds for a tomato that, it is claimed, will grow to 25 feet in height. I'm skeptical but will give them a chance to show me—if I can find poles long enough for the vines to reach their full growth. Anything can happen and generally does.

See what I mean about having the greenhouse?

SECOND NATURE PROGRAM

On Monday evening, April 25, The Carmel Adult School will present the second program in its spring series of Nature Appreciation Travelogs. These are being given in Sunset School Auditorium from 7:30 to 9:30 with an intermission period. They are all free to the public.

The greater part of this program will be furnished by Dr. Harold C. Bradley of Berkeley in the form of a color movie record of a six weeks' skiing trip in the Yosemite High Sierra in 1947 with five of his family.

Dr. Bradley's movie will be preceded by a showing of Yosemite Valley slides by C. Edward Graves, most of them from a week's visit to Yosemite last June. On succeeding Monday evenings Graves will show slides of Crater Lake National Park, Yellowstone National Park and Glacier National Park.

"Section 1251. The Council of said City hereby determines that the public interest, convenience and necessity of said City demand the acquisition, construction and completion of said municipal improvements above described; that said improvements are necessary and convenient to carry out the objects, purposes and powers of said municipality, and that said Council will and does hereby submit said proposition to the qualified voters of said City at said Special Municipal Election.

"Section 1252. "Section 1255. On Tuesday, the 24th day of May, 1949, the returns of said election shall be canvassed by said Council at the Council Chamber thereof in the City Hall of said city at the hour of 7:45 o'clock, P. M. of said day in the manner provided by law, and the result thereof declared; and if it shall appear from such returns as made and the results so declared that two-thirds (2/3) or more of the qualified voters voting at said election on said proposition voted in favor of such proposition then bonds of said City in the amount of and as set forth in such proposition so carried shall be issued and sold to the highest and best bidder for cash, but not, however, for less than the par value of such bonds and accrued interest thereon.

Do You Remember . . . ?

ROME — 1906

BY A. G. WARSHAWSKY

A noted French writer, famous for his travel books, Paul Morand, refers to Rome as a "city devoid of the picturesque." If that is to be taken as a serious judgment, one can only suppose that M. Morand confined his Roman rambles to the Vie Nazionale, Cavour, Venti-Seettembre, and similar regions evoking the history of modern Italy. It may, in fact, be taken as a general rule that any street or square in any town of Italy bearing the patriotic label of recent origin is guaranteed to be both unpicturesque and devoid of character, when it is not downright hideous and vulgar. In Rome, more than in any city I know, one is impressed by the fact that whatever patriotism (or shall we say "nationalism?") may have meant in the past as a stimulus to art, it is now—and has been for the last century—a veritable blight to all artistic expression. To realize to what lengths this aberration can drive a cultivated nation, one has but to look down the once glorious Corso of Rome at the "wedding cake," as it has been aptly described, which is officially known as the National Monument, symbol of the triumph of New Italy. To make room for that piece of flamboyant marble rhetoric an exquisite Renaissance building was carefully taken to pieces and rebuilt a little further off. However, it is better not to insist! Yet close by, as if to prove how truly inspired a public monument may be, there still stands, in undiminished glory, the Capitol, as devised by that ardent patriot, Michelangelo. The warning adage of the Tarpeian Rock, close to the Capitol, seems to have acquired a new meaning.

Needless to say (though perhaps the "needless" will cause some of our younger colleagues to smile), we got all the "kicks" we hoped to get out of St. Peter's, the Vatican, especially the Sistine Chapel with its glorious frescoes, the "Moses" of Michelangelo, and most of the other consecrated "sights of Rome."

One day in the Loggia at the Vatican we met a friend from Paris, an American painter, Phil Sawyer, copying one of Raphael's frescoes. Sawyer took us to the American Academy on the Gianicolo where the Prix de Rome students were studying. There we met Barry Faulkner, whom I had known in New York. He was a nephew of Abbott Thayer, and had been assisting George de Forest Brush. Faulkner invited me to visit him at his studio, where he was working on a large decorative panel, destined, if I remember rightly, for one of the Vanderbilt homes. There, to my astonishment, I found Ivan Olinsky, who was paying Faulkner a visit.

Olinsky was a clever young painter, who had been for years with John Lafarge, America's foremost mural decorator. Olinsky had been of the greatest assistance to Lafarge. With his blond moustache and small goatee, he looked like a handsome and younger edition of Paderewsky. Having passed some time in Venice, where he had worked throughout the last winter, he was full of enthusiasm for the city of St. Mark's. He assured us that Venice under the snow was an inspiring sight for the painter. This remark, I remember, surprised me, as, like many other Americans, I could not associate "sunny Italy" with scenes of snow and frost.

This reunion of old friends was the occasion for a little private festa, which lasted until the early hours of the morning. The wine of the Castelli Romani, for all its lightness of taste, is a potent and insidious beverage. Most of its varieties were sampled that night, ending with the traditional Aleatico and Vino Santo (the Roman desert wine which takes the place of port, or Madeira), with the result that Olinsky suffered a lapse of memory regarding the address of his hotel, and was obliged to share our room that night.

We spent a full and profitable month in

PREJUDICE

*House of hate from alien quarry bequeathed inviolate to him who follows.
Swallows build high above the creaking gate and the columns pocked with rain-dim script filched from a crypt.*

*Oh blindly defended
implacable stone precious it seems as bone of his bone.*

PRECAUTIONS

*Behind a cloud heavy as a buffalo
he has hidden his secret..
Where coral and sea-anemone sleep in strange waters
he has dived with his secret.
Where moles burrow and elms spread matted roots
he has buried his secret.*

*But his secret is slippery and multi-formed:
it flutters from the words he writes flows from his brush to the fantasies he draws trembles in his guarded voice, is in the pallor of his face and in the dark chambers behind his eyes.*

His secret betrays him to the earth and the ocean the sky and all the sons of men.

ADMONISHMENT TO SYMPATHETIC WOMEN

*Love too gentle and demanding or too bright with understanding cannot be bravely borne:
and she who would insinuate herself within the closed gate is ever doomed to mourn.*

*For souls are distant, shy and wary and souls must have a sanctuary green with grasses grown:
poignant moments rich and rare quicksilver dreams and cold despair are ever lived alone.*

MILLCENT

(Pullman Lithograph)

*Millicent walks with care down the aisle of the Pullman,
clutching with distaste successive backs of green upholstery.
(tasseled corn of Indiana flows gold in the warm sun)*

*Opaque shade drawn over the window, and the ruthless light no more reveals her porcelain face.
(wheat fields of Illinois move musically as the great wind stirs.)*

*Millicent touches her lips with carmine and her nails with brightness.
(the prairies of Wyoming are twilight sage, horizon-bound.
the cobalt Atlantic and the deep-lying Pacific are fettered with a steel rail.)*

*Millicent carries extraordinary boredom from the East to the West from the West to the East:
her pallid eyes affirm that a cocktail, a permanent wave

—HELEN SALZ.

Rome and its environs, sketching at Tivoli, Hadrian's Villa, and in the Campagna. At the same time we picked up a smattering of Italian, enough to stutter along.

Early in May we started for Florence. Olinsky, who had decided to return to Venice, accompanied us part of the way.

UMBRIA

Assisi and the Giotto's at St. Francis' Church on our program, we broke our journey at the Umbrian Mecca. The tourist season had arrived, and we found runners and employees of the hotels on the train, making advance publicity for their various establishments. So we were able to make our arrangements for a brief stay before reaching our destination.

The journey through the beautiful Tiber valley, then in all the glory of early summer, the enchanting views of the Appenine landscape, the famous little hill towns, with their towers and ramparts, and finally the long drive from the railway station up to the town of Assisi, perched half way up the mountain side, furnished a succession of thrilling surprises. One of them was the realization that the backgrounds of the Umbrian masters, with their ranges of hillocks, almost perpendicular in their abruptness, the mystically colored horizons, and the deep tones of earth and pastures, were no stylized convention of a School, but an actual representation of nature.

During the leisurely drive along country roads, often lined with blossoming hedgerows, we were struck by the curious atmosphere—a sort of serene solemnity, a composed gaiety, quite different from the romantic melancholy of the Roman Campagna or the somewhat flamboyant, almost theatrical effects of the Neapolitan landscape. The coloring was as rich, perhaps even richer, than any we had observed thus far, the brownness of the soil and the darkness of the greens surpassing in tonality anything I had seen or even thought possible in nature. It was certainly "something rich and strange," yet in no ways disconcerting, or even startling. On the contrary, there was a deep luminous tranquility, an almost seraphic repose, transfiguring the entire countryside. The very peasants we met on the road and the majestic snow-white oxen, appeared to have stepped out of some classic frieze, seemed imbued with the same spirit of serene contentment and dignified repose.

The little hotel where we put up was kept by an Englishwoman, and it turned out that it was her Italian husband who had acted as her agent on the train and secured our custom. My room was adorned with an elaborately painted ceiling, representing a blue empyrean with floating cupids—or perhaps they were choring seraphim, which would have been more in keeping with the religious atmosphere of the Franciscan city. That night in brilliant moonlight the three of us rambled through the mediaeval streets, gazing at the famous shrines and the little temple of Minerva (which alone had tempted Goethe to visit Assisi) and speculated on the wonders to be revealed within.

Nor were we disappointed the following morning, when we came before the Giotto frescoes in the Upper Church, depicting the life and miracles of St. Francis. Here were divine treatment of color and composition, so simply, so naively conceived, that only a great master could have achieved a convincing and enduring whole, transcending the usual limits of the "primitives." Plainly I could see whence another master, Puvis de Chavannes, had derived his greatest inspiration.

While we were wandering round the church, a minor miracle took place—apparently. For there we met friend Halpert, robed as a priest, serenely meditating. The resemblance was so striking that Halpert himself kept gazing at his alter ego in amazement.

We spent an entire day studying the frescoes, of which I should have liked to make copies, had there been time.

Word From Mays Family

Paul Mays has a letter from his traveling family. His son, Jared, raised in the gentle tradition of Carmel children, is now down on the Arizona desert. Upon seeing some Indian youngsters fighting, he remarked, "Well, I'll have to get used to these kind of boys."

Mr. Mays was not able to accompany his family on their trip, but will join them later in Arizona or New Mexico.

Coffee "Club" Addition

After carrying on a flirtation with Carmel for years, Bill Fort has taken up permanent residence here, adding another ready wit to the junior kaffee-klatsch held daily by Carmel's only early morning "club." His inclusion is specially welcomed by Dan Totheroh, since they are both ardent squirrel fanciers and feeders.

William C. Fort, as he was christened in his native Philadelphia, is a long-time California resident and has many friends both here and in San Francisco. An Army veteran of the South Pacific in the war, Fort was in medical administrative work and came out with the rank of Captain.

Holiday Visitors

A house guest and out of town callers have kept Mrs. Alice Allen on the go lately. Bridge, the current theatrical productions, and a lot of sightseeing were on the agenda for her house guest, Mrs. Blanche Gerlinger of San Jose, formerly of Portland and Beverly Hills.

On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Don Witherbee arrived for the weekend, which also brought Mrs. Allen's niece, Mrs. Mathew Shaw of Berkeley, and her two children for a visit. The Vic MacKenzies helped Mrs. Gerlinger show the callers the local spots of interest, and they made several trips for a glimpse of spring in the Carmel Valley, dining at various Valley places.

Warren Wests In Town

Warren West of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin was in town for the weekend with Mrs. West and their daughter, Genevieve. While enjoying the Easter holiday, the Wests did a little scouting around for a future homesite and dropped in to say hello to old friend Whit Wellman.

Mr. West's brother is an etcher under the name of Ivan Dmitri and as a color photographer under his own name. He served as a war correspondent for Saturday Evening Post during the last war. Warren West told us an amusing tale concerning his brother's visit to Carmel some 22 years ago, when, as a New York etcher, he was the honored guest of the then Carmel Art Gallery. Upon viewing some seven paintings of Point Lobos, he remarked, "I still don't see it."

"What?" asked the curator. "Oh, that worn rock," he replied. The artists present looked puzzled, and Ivan went on to explain, "That rock that must be worn down from all the painters sitting on it when they paint that point." From then on, he still remembers, his reception was noticeably frosty.

News of Kent Daniells

Mrs. Nelly Montague of the Carmel Art Gallery recently received a letter from Mrs. Kent Daniells, who is now at Cagnes sur Mer in France awaiting the arrival of the rest of the family at the end of the month. We quote a portion of the letter which may be of interest to the family's friends.

"Since I left California everything has been too marvelous. I've been to England, Ireland (where I went hunting and shooting), Scotland (where I danced the Highland Reel), Paris (where I ate snails and loved them), Switzerland for two weeks skiing and falling, and now here.

"The family is due to arrive at the end of April; so I'm busy trying to get the house and garden in order."

Mr. Daniells, a member of the Carmel Art Association, is an old friend of Zenas Potter, who is also now in France; as a matter of fact, they first knew one another in France many years ago.

Travel Lure

Offhand, we can't think of anyone who surpasses Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gilbert in their zest for taking to the highways and byways. They returned last week from a week's trip to Phoenix, Arizona, having had a pleasant visit with their daughter, Elizabeth, who attends Brownmoor school there. Mrs. C. R. Gilbert accompanied them on the drive.

Back in Carmel, they welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Keith Shaw of Vancouver, B. C., who were guests at the Gilbert home until Tuesday, when they left for the north. To complete their Easter holiday, daughter Cynthia arrived from Mills College to spend the weekend with them.

Cartoonists Reunion

The reunion of two old friends is always a good excuse for a round of parties. When the two friends are both cartoonists of a particularly zany school the result is bound to be hilarious, as it was last weekend when Claude Smith of New Yorker fame arrived to spend a few days in the Virgil Partch household. We trust the visiting fireman survived the energetic and vigorous entertaining put on in his honor by the Partches and their friends.

Party-Going Cast

If the number of parties indulged in by members of the cast of Arms and the Man is any indication, they must be a particularly congenial group. The latest entertainment for them took place last Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Smith. Present to meet the cast and join in the fun were the Smith's house guest, Mrs. Harry Foster of Fresno, and Spencer Barefoot of the San Francisco Chronicle, who was in town for the weekend.

Pop Plays Model

April 13 turned out to be an unusual but profitable and pleasant day for Pop Smith. A phone call from Lloyd Weer pressed him into service as a photographer's model for the Studebaker people, who were taking shots for their magazine ads. Pop, resplendent in a mailman's cap and flanked by two beautiful blondes, played the part of a rural mail carrier in the Valley. Thrilled? Of course he was!

Following the day's hard labor, Pop was taken over to dinner on the wharf, and only then did he find out that the man behind the camera was Paul Hesse, top notch Hollywood photographer.

John Upton on Mexico

Last Sunday's San Francisco Chronicle carried an article by John Upton relative to his travel experiences in Mexico. It is an interesting piece of writing, reflecting a genuine feeling for the country and its people. It should be of particular interest to those who contemplate travel below the border, since it deals honestly yet sympathetically with the difficulties encountered.

John and his wife, Marian, left Carmel about two months ago, bound for Guadalajara and Chappala, and it is to their credit that they embarked upon their journey with both a sense of humor and open minds.

Mary Burr At Work

Mary Burr was on stage again Easter Sunday when Ballet Theatre opened its three week engagement in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Mary, who was featured in Jardin au Lilas at the first performance, expects to be back in Carmel in about four weeks unless the Ballet goes on to London.

Mrs. Lithgow Osborne Here

Here from her home in Auburn, New York, is Mrs. Lithgow Osborne, who arrived recently to spend a few weeks with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne.

Last Friday the Osbornes entertained at luncheon at Cypress Point Club for Richard's mother and the Baron and Baroness Carl Rosenorn, who are also guests on the Peninsula.

Attend San Jose Meet

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson joined Dr. and Mrs. Donald Jaques and Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams when they drove up to San Jose Thursday to attend the potluck dinner given by the Northern Section of the Women's Auxiliary to the Central Coast Optometric Association. The dinner was given in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Plummer of San Jose.

Council of Church Women

The Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women will hold its annual meeting and May breakfast on Friday, May 6, at 11 a. m., at the Mayflower Congregational Church on Central Avenue in Pacific Grove. All women interested in Peninsula church activities are eligible to attend. Announcement on reservations will be made next week.

Interesting Family

If you have never seen the Alvarez sisters on their frequent visits to Carmel with their mother, Mrs. Rafael Alvarez of San Francisco, you have missed two lovely and charming young ladies.

Mrs. Alvarez and Carmen were in town this week for a short visit with Betty Horst, bringing news of their recent trip to Central America. The family returned a short time ago from San Salvador, where they had journeyed to attend services for Senor Rafael Alvarez, whose death occurred recently after a long illness. Senor Alvarez, a Brazilian by birth, is credited with introducing the coffee industry to San Salvador and wore his adopted country's decorations for his many services to it.

Both Carmen and her sister, Peace, returned from New York in June of last year. Carmen, who was enrolled at the Neighborhood Playhouse while in New York, plans to leave in August for England, where she will pursue her dramatic studies in London.

While in New York Peace was engaged in post-graduate studies toward her career in psychiatric welfare work and will now finish her studies at the University of California at Los Angeles. Her eventual aim is to donate a year's service in welfare work to San Salvador as a memorial to Senor Alvarez.

Anna Fisher Entertained

Mrs. Elizabeth Madison, chairman of the book section of the Carmel Woman's Club, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Anne Fisher, at the regular book review meeting held in the Carmel Woman's Club House on Monday.

Mrs. Fisher, wearing a forty-niner gown of flowered print calico in the old heart and forget-me-not design, with bands of yellow print around the puffed sleeves and the full skirt, explained that the "good" women of mining days had many buttons to close the front of their dresses, but that in her hurried modern life she resorted to zippers. Around her shoulders she wore a large white cashmere shawl. Such pieces of finery were brought around the Horn and sold at auction to the miners, who paid fabulous prices and then gave these luxuries to the women of the dance-halls.

Mrs. Fisher's talk disclosed the source of her material for her latest book, Oh Glittering Promise. On a trip to the Mother Lode country near Modesto three years ago, she discovered a woman who owned a trunk full of letters, diaries and papers found in an old shack. Mrs. Fisher went to work classifying the avalanche. She made a file of every camp and every day in camp, thus breaking down the first chronology. Her files were pinned to the drapes in her home and even covered the floor in her bedroom. The first draft of the book ran to 600 pages, and when Mrs. Fisher cut it down she found she had enough material for two books. She is now at work on the second in her home in Carmel Valley.

Tea was served by Mrs. James Burgess, hostess chairman for the month. Assisting her were Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mrs. Helen Swinton, and Dr. Pauline Eckman. Mrs. F. E. Naftzger, house chairman, was responsible for the table arrangements, which included centerpieces of pansies. Presiding at the table were Mrs. E. T. Pattee and Mrs. Nora Law.

To reach Mrs. Howden's home in Carmel Woods, follow Serra Avenue from the Serra monument out to Highway 1, turn north to San Luis, thence west up the hill and turn left on San Mateo Road.

Mrs. Cochrane Interviewed

Mrs. Edward W. Cochrane, chairman of the Monterey County Unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services, was interviewed on Station KRUZ this morning by June Dowler of the Fort Ord Public Information Office.

In connection with the AWVS membership drive, which will be in progress from now until May 15, Mrs. Cochrane spoke of the organization's desire to have Army and Navy wives participate in activities, particularly in the AWVS Seaside shop. She spoke of the aims of the AWVS as well as its local and state setups, giving a well-rounded picture of its numerous projects.

The program on which Mrs. Cochrane spoke is The Feminine Touch and is heard three mornings a week over KRUZ. Miss Dowler, whose experience in international relations includes her work as a civilian employee with Radio Frankfurt in Germany following the war, is herself an AWVS member and particularly interested in youth problems.

Mrs. Crossman Here

Mrs. Herman Crossman, former local resident, arrived Friday from Greenwich, Conn., where she now makes her home. En route she made a stop-over in Pasadena to see her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Barton (Doris Crossman) and their two children. Mrs. Crossman is here for an indefinite visit with her mother, Mrs. Terence Lynch, and her sister, Mrs. Rene McDonald, and the McDonald household, including Bob and his wife, Nick, is busy catching up on family news. Bob, by the way, has turned Nick into an enthusiastic golfer, and she returned home the other day, having been a guest of the ladies at the Watsonville Country Club, triumphantly brandishing her first trophy.

Stamp Auction Brisk

Colonel John R. Wright heard reports from various committees, as well as the secretary and the treasurer, before the auction at the meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club on Monday.

Auctioneer Arch Gibson was assisted by E. D. Yount. The bidding was brisk, and Mr. Gibson's running comments added to the interest and spirit of the auction.

The next meeting of the Junior Club will be held Saturday, May 7, in the Sunset School Library at 11 a. m.

The senior Club will meet next at Sunset School Library at 8 p. m., on Monday, May 2, at which time Captain W. A. Foote will address the group on catalogues and reference material. All local and Peninsula stamp collectors are invited to join this group of philatelists.

Skiing Still Good

The recent holidays were the signal for Carmel's ski enthusiasts to head for the mountains, where the snow is still from nine to ten feet deep.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Seipel gathered up Kathy, Bob and Ted for a week as Yosemite, where they made headquarters at Wawona. It was a real treat for the children, who had never seen so much snow before, and Mrs. Seipel says they all had a marvelous time.

G. B. Henderson and his daughter, Sherry, were also there, and they spotted Mavis Jones enjoying the winter sports. George Cain, Howard Timbers and his daughter got off to an early morning start on the weekend for just a day's skiing.

Jennifer Lloyd, Biz Carr and Herb Riebe spent a few days up at Echo Lake.

We're all familiar with the Carmel branch of Gump's, so the book will hold special interest as it tells the history of this establishment, together with a fascinating tale of old San Francisco. Publication date is April 29, but beginning the first of the week watch the windows at the VILLAGE BOOK SHOP for the appearance of Gump's Treasure Trade, Ocean Avenue near the Bank of Carmel.

Off For England

Sunday marked Charles H. Rayne's departure for his native Britain, where he expects to spend about two months on a combined business and pleasure trip, making visit in Scotland and Ireland before flying home.

This will be Mr. Rayne's first return in the 12 years since he has been here. His itinerary will include the British Industries Fair in London, the International Exposition in Basle, the Arts and Crafts Exposition in Florence, a textile show in Lyons and a visit to Paris.

Mr. Rayne is the father of Derek Rayne of Carmel. Graduating from Kings College in London, Mr. Rayne went on to Europe to complete his education. Member of the Royal Society of Arts and Industries, he was for 25 years director of H. and M. Rayne, Ltd., of Bond Street, London. He was also a founder of the London Fashion Group, whose roster includes the name of more than one famous designer.

Hank Waters Away

Attendance at two weddings is on the program for Hank Waters, who left by plane Wednesday, bound for New Orleans. Both a niece and a nephew are scheduled to be married during his visit there. Hank expects to spend about three weeks seeing the sights in New Orleans and may decide to drive back to the coast for a short tour of the country.

Piano Pupils Recital

Kathryn Lansdowne presented a group of piano pupils in an Easter recital on Monday, April 18. Myrna Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sutton, was hostess to the group which is known as the Music Club.

Selections from memory by Schaum, Michael Aaron, Beethoven, Schubert and Saint-Saens were well executed, the performers showing progress and increased interest.

Each pupil also sang and played a short song with an Easter theme ending the program with four duets.

Members of the club present were Patricia Coleman, Kathryn Cope, Beverly Prior, Ina Adams, Diane Tootelian, Renee and Roberta Vallon and the hostess.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Too many gardens have inadequate tools. Too many gardeners work too hard. Too many hose are short of their mark and instead of providing slow irrigation for newly planted beds, some fellow shoots from a power nozzle knocking the small plants down. There is a radio advertisement that says, "If you are not using something-or-other, you are working too hard." So there you are. You are working too hard. If you will equip your garden with the simple necessities, such as adequate hose, you won't have to spend your time shooting innocent flowers in the face. All newly planted beds should be irrigated very slowly, by tying a piece of cloth around the end of the hose, and laying the hose in some spot that will not uproot the plants. Let the beds flood once or twice, and your plants will respond with "thank you kindly."

Sprinklers are treacherous. They make such a fuss about sending forth a mighty spray, but seldom does the sprinkler do an honest job. Carmel gardens are mostly sand, pine needles and oak leaves, and water will not penetrate such a combination except by irrigation. Water just has to stand on a spot and sink in, or you might as well not bother at all.

If brown spots appear in your lawn don't tear your hair. Find out first whether the brown spot is caused by the lawn moth, or by fungus. In either case remedy is simple. But, most brown spots in lawns are the result of drought. The soil directly beneath the spot may be non-absorbent, so tie a cloth around the end of the hose and lay the hose so that water remains and sinks in.

All shrubs and small trees should be trenched and water allowed to run slowly until the trench is filled. This manner of watering means fewer hours nursing that dad-blasted garden, and instead of being tied around your neck like the proverbial mill-stone, the garden becomes a joy. If you have planted daphne or mailija poppy, go slow on the water. Both of these plants enjoy a continued drought and resent wet feel at all times. An occasional over-head sprinkling does the trick. So don't plant daphne or matilija poppy close to plants that require irrigating.

I believe that all earnest gardeners are slightly "touched in the head." Me too. Recently, Walt Pilot took me to Niles, California, to witness the spring showing at the California Nursery. Oh dear! I wanted everything I saw. The flowering trees were all in bloom and the galaxy of color made my head swim with joy. So, since we were in Mr. Pilot's truck, and there was plenty of room, why not. The trick at the California nursery is that one stands breathless before a ten year old weeping cherry tree, in full bloom; the trick comes along when you remark to the attendant, "Oh, I wish I had a tree like that." He replies, "Right this way, madam," and before you know it you have bought an entire flowering orchard. Your purchase is only saplings, tiny, delicate thins, and you forget that they are going to grow into robust trees. Such is the glutony of gardeners. When we unloaded Mr. Pilot's truck in front of my house, I was appalled! The Cheerful Cherub has said it for me:

"It takes all the joy from a wild shopping spree
And the next day it drives me distraught
To find that the nursery listened to me
And sent me the things that I bought."

One More Chance Given To See Arms And The Man

"Arms and the Man, having set a new record for the Golden Bough Playhouse with four successive capacity audiences, will be given an extra performance next Monday night, April 25. The cast, directed by Lee Crowe, are all members of the drama division of Carmel Adult School. Enthusiastic press reviews and the mounting interest of the public attest the high quality of the production. George Bernard Shaw has never been wittier than in this comedy, with he wrote in the 'eighties but which could have been written yesterday, so fresh and unhackneyed are its humorous jabs at incompetence in high places and in its debunking of military "brass." The Adult School, having studied the play in drama class long before starting rehearsals, make the most of the hilarious situations and of Shaw's crisp dialogue.

The next production, Edward Kuster's By Candlelight, being nearly ready for its opening, next Monday's performance of Arms and the Man will positively be the last. Reservations by phoning Carmel 403-W.

Women Voters Broadcast

A broadcast this morning at 9:30 over KDON had for its subject a portion of the recent health survey of Monterey County by the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters. Mrs. Frances A. Ballard, president, introduced the two speakers who are members of the County Health Department.

Mrs. Naomi Hall, health educator for the County, told of her work in speaking to schools, community groups and other organizations on the causes and methods of prevention of disease. She had extensive experience in this work before coming to this area.

Edward Munson, chief sanitarian in the County Health Department, spoke on the handling of food, maintaining purity in water supplies, and control of mosquitoes, perhaps the most important factors in community health conditions. Mr. Munson carried on outstanding work in this field before coming here, and he rates high in the Sanitary Department.

This broadcast is a feature in the League's policy of service to the community, in this case by publicizing county health conditions and telling the individual citizen what he can do to promote a healthful community.

Random Shots

Corum Jackson and Jack Benny both celebrated their "39th" birthdays again last Sunday.

Two recent newcomers in town — the Denney Fitzgeralds from Greenwich Village via San Francisco. Craftsmen both, they're holding forth in their new Cobbler's Shop at Eighth and San Carlos, where they offer expertly made sandals of their own design. Housing being what it is, they've taken a place at Garrapatos for the time being.

Douglas and Kay Short were down from Marin County last weekend and joined local friends for a beach picnic Sunday.

Guthrie and Moira Courvoisier don't know when to stop. Moira rubbed paint in her eyes without thinking; Guthrie seems to have a bit of some plastic material in his, and now they're making do visits to the doctor.

It's a wonder the Arms and the Man cast has energy left for performances; another party for them Monday night at Ted and Gay Kuster's home on the Point, wives, husbands and friends joining the fun.

We rely on Bert Heron to maintain Carmel's traditions, and we were startled the other day to see him all shieked up in a blue business suit. Not too often, please, Bert?

Carmel Valley was teeming with diners-out Saturday night. We spotted Mayor Fred Godwin and his wife having an apertif before dining at the Carousel.

Katherine O'Neill, of the old Van Riper Barn O'Neills, looks as pretty as the flowers she's fixing up for a local florist.

Chuck Wright commuting daily between Varda's Red Barn in Monterey and her job in Carmel.

We're anxious to see Dan Harris' decorations at the Fassett's Nepenthe and will be on hand Sunday when they throw open their doors.

Dorothy and Charles Schultz spending every weekend they can at their Pebble Beach home. They will shut up their San Francisco apartment some time this summer for a trip to the Islands.

After a period of uncertainty, Don Haines and his family finally decided to take a chance on the rural life and find they like living up the Valley.

Bach Festival participants already engrossed in rehearsals, and half the fun seems to be in rehashing the sessions the next day.

Marian Upton is in Los Angeles, having flown up from Guadalajara, and telegraphs that she will return to Carmel tonight.

William Moberg, the Swedish author, among friends of Edith and Harry Dickinsons who gathered Tuesday evening at their home to see slides of Denmark and Sweden.

The Fashion Show at the Pine Inn next Wednesday will be put on by the Carmel Dress Shop. Two luncheons, one at 12:15 and the other at 1:15, are open to the public, and reservations may be made at Carmel 600.

Boy Scout Camp

Boy Scout summer camp will again be held at Camp Esselen, located in Big Sur State Park, starting June 12, it has been announced by Walter Tavernetti, chairman of the Monterey bay area scout council. There will be three six-day periods, the first starting Sunday afternoon, June 12, to Saturday, June 19, and the third, June 26 to July 2.

Troops must provide their own adult leadership, and scouts must attend with their own troop or arrange in advance for temporary assignment to another troop. Each scout must pay a registration fee of $1.00 a period; food cost is additional, the amount depending on his troop's method of providing meals. If a troop prepares its own meals, the cost will vary by troop; if troop eats at central kitchen, where all food is prepared by employed help, the cost is $9 for 18 meals. The council will provide a central staff of experts who will be in residence at the camp to supervise the program.

Senior scouts may attend council-operated camp at Big Sur or attend a trek of their own, and plans are now being made for a suggested senior expedition.

A special program, centered around the neighborhood den and Pack, will be available for Cub Scouts, 9, 10, and 11 years old.

Detained At Yosemite

The "Chuck" Dawsons had an Easter week vacation planned that included Yosemite, Sequoia and Death Valley. They went to Yosemite, period. "How could we leave when it was so nice there and the kids were having so much fun," said "Chuck," Carmel Adult School principal, in explaining the whole week spent in Yosemite Valley.

WILGRESS IS SPEAKER

The guest speaker at Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's current literature group next Tuesday evening, 7:30, room 11, Sunset School, will be John Wilgress, the Oxford graduate who is now a Monterey and Carmel bookman, specializing in rare editions. He has a wide experience as lecturer and teacher in both England and California.

He will discuss why the Nobel Prize was awarded to T. S. Eliot, the American poet who turned Englishman. There is no admission charge, since the event is under the auspices of the Carmel Adult School.

Ada Collbran

Miss Ada Collbran, 72, and a resident of Carmel for the past seven years, passed away at a local hospital Sunday following a lingering illness. She made her home here at Monte Verde and Palou.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Susan Ralston and Mrs. Harriet Teasdale, both of New York. Services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the T. A. Dorney funeral chapel.

DIED: Of cancer, at the age of 12½, Spice, the wire-haired, famed secretary of Glenn Clairmonte; mother of eight; charter member and regular attendant of the current literature group and writers club of the Carmel Adult School; survived by hundreds of admirers.

Pine Cone, Thursday

Dear Glenn:

When I found the above note on my desk I was genuinely grieved and shocked. Please accept my sincere sympathy; I know what a delightful companion little Spice has been to you. And how amiable and well behaved she was! When you had errands down town and left her to wait for you in The Pine Cone office, she would remain in her appointed place, a friendly onlooker, a guest who knew well where graciousness ended and familiarity began. She never stepped beyond the bounds.

We at The Pine Cone shall miss Spice, too.—Wilma.

Puerto Penasco, Sonora, Mexico, April 11, 1949

Dear Friends:

I recall reading of a butterfly migration whose participants stop off at Pacific Grove on a certain day each spring.

Here this morning, and all of a sudden, the air is full of butterflies. It's the little reddish brown job with a wingspread of perhaps two inches. Sorry I don't have time to chase butterflies and send you a specimen.

Thought perhaps that this item might add a link to the chain of evidence that some of your local butterflies come from one place or another. This port is located on the east or Sonora shore of the Gulf of California, about 100 miles below the mouth of the Colorado River.

Yours very truly,

idence district this form of advertising can be a nuisance to the neighbors, and it is a menace to safety when the lights are so situated as to shine in the eyes of automobile drivers.

The commission recommended that the council and city attorney go to work on the problem.

The city council becomes so swamped with routine business of running the town that it is frequently unable to give sufficient attention to the big little things that are of genuine, long-range importance to Carmel.

The planning commission is filling a real need, not only in giving conscientious study to the matters the council refers to it, but in initiating action as well.

Health Officer Warns Valley Against Rabies

A warning to all Carmel Valley residents to confine their dogs and cats to their yards was issued this week by Dr. Kenneth Sheriff, County Health Officer, since the discovery, a week ago, of a rabid skunk which attacked four dogs belonging to Douglas Bradburn in Los Laureles Tract.

Dr. Sheriff said that a quarantine will not be placed in effect unless local conditions become more acute. A campaign to trap predatory animals in the area will be instituted immediately by the County Agricultural Commission, but not until complete cooperation by Valley residents is assured. This is to prevent pets from being trapped.

An immunization program against rabies is being formulated at the present time where pets can be treated at a centrally located place, to be announced later, for a nominal fee.

Drive Continues For All Saints' Building Fund

The building fund drive for All Saints' Church will continue until the necessary amount has been reached, it was announced this week. Total amount raised to date by the teams working on the project is in the neighborhood of $107,000, and it is estimated that an additional $40,000 will be needed.

Actual work on the building is expected to start at the end of this year or early in 1950. Capt. Archer Allen, in charge of the drive, said that he and other members of his committee were very well pleased with results to date and that they wished to express their appreciation to the workers, members of the congregation and others who contributed so generously.

Bowling, archery, horse shoe pitching, equitation, fly casting and other outdoor sports are practiced in the various meadows of San Francisco's Golden Gate Park.

Late Watch Convenes

There was a liberal sprinkling of cub reporters on duty for the morning editions of the San Francisco papers at the time of the great earthquake. "Cubs no more, I regret to say," says Jimmy Hopper. "In fact, one of them is 90!"

Jimmy was in San Francisco last weekend to participate in the annual dinner held by the Late Watch, an organization made up originally of the reporters who covered the quake and now broadened to include other newspapermen. At the time of the disaster he was a reporter on the old San Francisco Call, later an afternoon paper and finally the present Call-Bulletin. The annual event, strictly stag, is the occasion for a lot of reunions and reminiscing, and seems to be enjoyed equally well by both ex-cubs and newcomers.

Teachers Vacation, Too

Yards, streets and the beach were filled with youngsters last week, and for a change Sunset School was a quiet place. Teachers had vacations, too. Some took them seriously, some traveled and some just enjoyed staying home.

Arthur Hull, principal, attended the California Elementary School Administrators' convention in Santa Cruz for three days, where he participated on a panel with Monterey Peninsula principals on the topic, The Principal's Responsibility in the Elementary School.

Mrs. Sylvia Meeter Jordan, head of the seventh grade, spent her vacation in San Jose with her son, Eade, who is at San Jose State College.

Neill Rush, fifth grade teacher, took to the air to spend three days in San Diego and the remainder with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Rush of South Pasadena.

Harriett A. Norman, fourth grade, spent the holiday in San Francisco, and Myra T. Mylar, also fourth grade, divided her time between Carmel and Fresno to be with her mother, Mrs. Tom Tucker of Fresno.

Mrs. Anna Kohner, third grade, went to Los Angeles and to San Jose. Third grade teacher Mrs. Howard Crawford was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Waters of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Edna C. Lockwood of the second grade chose Clearlake Highlands and reports that the redwoods, of which Lake County is very proud, were in full bloom. Her mother, Mrs. A. G. Campbell of Council Grove, Kansas, who is spending the winter here, accompanied Mrs. Lockwood on the trip.

Mrs. Constance Riggan, first grade, and her husband went to San Francisco and to Stockton, where they visited Mrs. Riggan's parents for a few days.

Mrs. Marjorie McCausland, kindergarten, attended the Santa Cruz principals' conference for three days, also. Upon her return she entertained house guests, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Musgrove of Inglewood. The kindergarten's other instructor, Mrs. Marcia F. DeVoe, drove first over to Death Valley, then on to Boulder City and Hoover Dam. She took colored photos of the beautiful fields of desert flowers and went on down to Palm Springs, returning to Carmel by

There are two new students in Mrs. Jordan's seventh grade. Virginia Jones was transferred from P. G. grammar school, which she attended for two weeks. Before that she went to Hancock Cooper school in San Francisco.

Stan Daley came from Woodland, California, to spend three weeks in Carmel.

—Pat Finley, grade seven.

The fifth grade has a new pupil, Mary Ethel Keith, who came from a school in Cairo, Egypt. Her family lived there because her father had a job with the Philippine Air Lines. She flew there by way of New York, Nova Scotia, Portugal, Spain, and Tunisia. On the return trip they flew by way of the Philippines to San Francisco. She likes Sunset School very much.

Included in the sermon are the following citations:

The Bible: "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord" (I Corinthians 15: 58).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standards of mortals, will increase longevity, will purify and elevate character. Thus progress will finally destroy all error, and bring immortality to light" (p. 492).

New Shows At The Gallery

By Mary Caluori

There are 48 oils in the Full Membership Show at the Carmel Art Association Gallery (including some portraits), 26 water colors, and quite a special portrait gallery.

The paintings this reviewer lingered over and remembers:

Napier Lane, San Francisco, by Freeman Sargent, is but verily San Francisco; so much in such little dimension—the drab, the colorful, side by side; descriptive, familiar, eloquent.

Still Life by John O'Shea is a magnificent oil: Tall Birds of Paradise rearing exotic heads from an eccentric green swan vase; balance, depth of green that rests the eye, and a certain self-consciousness. O'Shea's Oldest Native, water color, reminds one of Van Gogh's old men of the earth earthy.

Abstraction by Leslie Emery is inviting; aesthetic, dynamic in its still happenings: a woman's sculptured bust, pearl necklace, green jade vase, salla lilies, fuchsia colored fabric, and a picture in a picture with a woman's bosom and hand dramatized.

African Marigolds, done by E. M. Heath: a striking, self-explanatory piece in two shades of gold.

Tranquility by Nell Warner: a study of cherry blossoms in a blue vase; oriental figurine. Delicate tranquil grace.

Lots of trees. Oaks in Summer, by Arthur Hill Gilbert: flowing lines.

The Old Monarch, by Joseph Bennett, expresses quiet freedom. Dusky blue mountains in the distance, leaning oak touching the straw colored earth.

Nocturne, by Ferdinand Burgdorff, has a mystic quality. Everything speaks, the lone star, the shadowy strange tree branch, the deep atmosphere.

To the sea worshippers: Marine Battery by Frank M. Moore is well named. Rock and the incessant sea. Power is stressed.

October by Armin Hansen is a bucolic piece, somber and sturdy. Stout cross-lines that are reassuring, quietude prevails.

Justema's Sedems (in the Modern alcove) is stable and sure; it draws you. Rock and rock plant; "spirit out of matter" implied.

Nude by Warshawsky: A woman sits on a rich rosy fabric, back to you. Her piled up hair is reddish too. Her skin glows and there is a strong affinity between the complements in the picture, the green wall, the figured tapestry—all is luminous and alive. Deep green color that you can almost smell.

Sam Wainwright's China Beach with its high sea-worn rock, the sheltered cove, translucent green water. I went back and back.

Displaced Persons, by Victor Di Gesu is heart-breakingly expressive.

Ruins of Luxor by William C. Watts: mellowed and serene and eloquent of the past; gorgeous ruddy colored pillars dominate the scene.

Don't pass up the portraits. See Henrietta Shore's portrait of a child: china blue eyes, corn colored hair. Delightful.

Marjorie Schiffeler has done a portrait of a pioneer hunter of the old days in Monterey County. He just turned ninety-three.

A wonderful portrait of the poet Auslander by Smith. It justifies our concept of the man.

Mayor Fred Godwin Answered 32 Separate Sets Of Leading Questions

If Mayor Fred Godwin's knowledge of early Carmel history happened to be the least bit sketchy (which it isn't) there are 32 members of Mrs. L. R. Mylar's fourth grade at Sunset School who would have spread it all over town by this time.

Recently, Hizzoner received a request from the 32 in question to learn more about their village's government. The result was that they were invited en masse for a visit to the city hall, where any and all questions were answered. Here are letters from Mrs. Myler, and a few of her students.

March 25, 1949

Dear Mr. Godwin:

The enclosed letters are self-explanatory, and, as teacher of the fourth grade children who wrote them, I ask your indulgence and understanding of the letters in appearance and content. Some were copied many times in an attempt to send you faultless copies.

The requests may not seem feasible but our class will appreciate any help. There are thirty-two of us, in case you would like us to come to the City Hall for a visit.

Sincerely yours,
Myra T. Mylar.
(Mrs. L. R.)

Room 5,
Sunset School
March 23, 1949

Dear Mr. Fred Godwin:

Our class has decided to write different important people, so I decided to write you.

There are a few questions I would like to ask you.

1. How long have you been mayor and how many mayors have there been before you?

2. Tell us some particular laws and why they were made?

3. Why aren't there any neon advertising signs?

4. May our whole class come to visit the City Hall?

5. Tell us something about voting for new mayors.

Please let us know at your earliest convenience when we may come to visit you.

Yours sincerely,
Charles Keith.

Dear Mr. Godwin:

We are studying about Carmel and California and would like to come to City Hall to learn some facts if you don't mind.

Sincerely yours,
James Bannerman.

Room 5,
Sunset School,
March 22, 1949

Dear Mr. Godwin:

Mrs. Mylar's class would like to know if we may come to the City Hall. We would like to have some information about Carmel:

1. What the Mayor does? 2. How are big problems managed? 3. Who manages the building requirements and what are requirements? 4. Something about early Carmel government. 5. Some facts about the City Hall. 6. Tell us some particular laws and why they were made. 7. Tell us why we don't have any traffic lights and why no neon advertising. 8. Something about voting for new Mayor, and the length of his office. 9. Who besides the Mayor helps govern Carmel and the length of his office? 10. The population and area of Carmel. 11. How old is the statue of Father Serra by Mora?

Plans of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. McDonald for a two story, four unit apartment building on the southeast corner of Mission and Fifth were also approved.

Who besides the Mayor helps govern Carmel and the length of his office? 10. The population and area of Carmel. 11. How old is the statue of Father Serra by Mora?

Please let us know at your earliest convenience when we may come.

Sincerely yours,
Mary Knox.

Sunset School,
March 22, 1949

Dear Mr. Godwin:

Since you are the Mayor of Carmel we would like you to come to our room and tell us about:

1. What a Mayor does.

2. How big problems are managed.

3. Who manages building requirements?

4. What are building requirements?

5. Early Carmel government.

6. City Hall's history.

7. Carmel history.

8. How long have you been a Mayor and how many mayors have been before you?

9. Who was the first Mayor?

Please let us know at your earliest convenience when you may come.

"Doing Nicely" Is Report On Boys Injured At Ord

Little Jerry and David Edgeman, 11 and 9 year old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Simuell Edgeman of Seaside, were reported "doing very nicely" at the Ft. Ord Station Hospital today.

The two boys were seriously injured when they toyed with a live shell on a Ft. Ord artillery range. David suffered injuries which necessitated the amputation of both legs above the knees, and it was necessary to amputate three of little Jerry's toes. Jerry also suffered multiple small wounds.

The youths crawled under a fence to pick wild flowers for an Easter bouquet for their mother. The impact area on the range was fenced and clearly marked and the two boys had been repeatedly cautioned by their older brother, a soldier at Ft. Ord, never to toy with shells or ammunition of any kind. However, the boys found the shell and planned to take it home to make a lamp from the shell casing.

The two injured boys were taken to the Ft. Ord Station Hospital by Sgt. 1/c Lyle V. Stepleton of Co. E, 22nd Inf. Regt.

And Still More Centennial Books Roll Off The Press

In homage to the California Centennial, the Exposition Press of New York is publishing two contributions to the literature of Californiana.

California Vignettes, to be issued on November 5, spans a period of nearly three quarters of a century in the evolution of a region and a people as observed and reported by Rockwell D. Hunt, Dean Emeritus of the University of Southern California, Director of the California History Foundation, and known for his numerous writings dealing with the history and institutions of the state. Dean Hunt, who is the author of John Bidwell, Prince of California Pioneers, California: A Little History of a Big State, and other volumes concerning this state, has distilled the experiences of a lifetime in California Vignettes. A world-wide traveler as well as historian, Dr. Hunt reports the many significant phases of California's growth which came under his personal observation. In his sketches is reflected the metamorphosis of the Golden State: the coming of her first flood of settlers, the conquest of her fabulous wealth, the development of the citizenry, paradoxical and adventurous, etc.

Tehama—Little City of the Big Trees, by Clara Hough Hiskin, Postmistress of Tehama, is replete with the legends and anecdotes which spring up in connection with places much loved and lived in, and, since Mrs. Hiskin is not one to sidestep a good story, these manage to convey the unique flavor of the town she swears by.
